The traditionnal city of Bari

Welcome to Bari, the most important city and the capital of Southern Italy. Somewhere on the Adriatic coast, the city combines both dense history and seaside charm. One of the main airports is about 9km away and offers a shuttle service that takes you to the city centre. You can feel the dolce vita spirit in the alleys of the old town with its pretty houses and its typical Apulian facades. The region of Puglia is famous for its sublime gastronomy, especially for the 'orecchiettes' - the 'pasta symbol' of the region.

The sea view of Polignano a mare

This Apulian town is nicknamed the 'Pearl of the Adriatic Sea' for its pretty houses perched on limestone cliffs by the sea. The sea view from the heights of Polignano a mare has all the ingredients for a perfect day. The town centre is accessible via Porta Vecchia where charming white-washed streets and beautiful old churches like The Chiesa Matrice form an atypical frame. The picturesque beach of Polignano a mare is renowned for its azure waters and contrasting limestone cliffs at the foot of the city.

The trulli of Alberobello

Alberobello is a unique UNESCO World Heritage Site. Exploring this small Apulian town is like taking a trip to a timeless village for the town is unique in every sense. Visiting and discovering the famous trulli, atypical dry stone huts with conical roofs, is a must during your trip. The magical atmosphere of the trulli is ideal for hosting events and festivals throughout the year.

Ostuni - La città Bianca

The chic city of Ostuni owes its name to the white coloured limestones of its monuments, illuminating the picturesque citadel under the sun rays. Built atop a hill, Ostuni offers a spectacular panorama over olive tree fields and the Adriatic coast. Several masseria and former agricultural farms are located in this region. The picturesque Greek-Arabic inspired old town is marked by a Mediterranean atmosphere and a maze of alleys, staircases and typical Apulian houses.

The oriental town of Otranto

It's actually very difficult to resist to the charm of the most oriental city of Italy. Located in the province of Lecce, Otranto is both a tourists hub and a place full of history. Colonised by both the Greek and the Roman in the past, Otranto was one of the most famous ports of the Adriatic Coast for the Byzantine Empire. The old medieval town is full of architectural splendours with its rampants surrounding the city.

The Baroque city of Lecce

Known as the 'Florence of Southern Italy', Lecce is one of the most beautiful cities to visit both day and night in the south of Italy. Famous for its 17th century Baroque architecture, the Mediterranean city of art is full of treasures which are still protected from tourism. The historical monuments, palazzi, castelli and churches were all built with the stone of Lecce, a very soft limestone which even today brings a beautiful harmony to the entire old town.
